

ABSTRACT

A rotary tool for moldings fabricated preferably from wood. The tool has a one-part or multi-part pad and at least one peripheral row of abrasive-coated sanding segments that are slipped onto pad elements affixed to the pad. A locking unit is movable in the axial direction
5 such that at least the sanding segments of one peripheral row can be mounted on the pad elements.